REAL ESTATE WEB SOLUTIONS

REWS is a privately-held boutique technology company that enjoys the privilege of assisting select brokers by providing competitive products and relevant services that play a vital business role, from contact-to-contract.

Real Estate Web Solutions, LLC: REWS was founded in 2008 by Jimmy Brockman and George Toumbalakis who met in college and went on to individually own and operate their own information technology consulting firms. After surveying the housing industry landscape, they leveraged their professional expertise and real estate knowledge to architect and build a modern solution for residential brokerages. They had the foresight to bundle private cloud-based back office solutions for brokers with public websites that appeal to prospective home buyers and sellers. REWS is known for delivering leading edge—rather than bleeding edge—solutions that are complemented by passionate personal service, support, and coaching.

Our brand: The iconic rooster, or *REWSt*er as we spell it, visually reinforces how a group of our customers once enthusiastically referred to themselves. The name stuck. It reinforces the fact that over the years our system could not have continued to improve without insightful feedback and suggestions from our invaluable REWSters.
